It was attended by some of the most distinguished members and most active workers of the Republican party in the city. In addition to the guests of honor, Odell and the general committee of the party were present. The keynote for the majority campaign of 1901 was sounded loud and clear. It was declared by Leonard Woodruff, Secretary of the Republican Club, that the next election in the city of New York must be won by a combination of all the anti-Tammany forces backed by such a large number of the State Legislature as would insure a freedom to the electors from intimidation by the Tammany-controlled police force. It was not asserted that a State constabulary bill would be the measure urged by the Republican managers, but the evils of police intimidation with which this city is now afflicted, but there was no mistaking the purpose to which the banquet was given. The guests were seated at long tables in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Hamilton. The program was a most successful one. The first speaker was Governor-elect Odell, who, in his address, asked the support of all good citizens of the State for needed legislation. ISIA LANDS A GOOD THING.

HALF BROTHER TO ISIDOR BEATS THE FAVORITE MADDIE.

Had Day for the Bayers of Odds at Aqueduct. First Whip Outlets Alake and Harbert in a Driving Finish—The Favorite, Belle of Troy, Is Shut Out and Finishes Last Place.

The defeat of five favorites at the Aqueduct track on Tuesday secured to have a bad effect, for yesterday there was a big falling off in the attendance. The rather poor card, too, had something to do with the slim attendance. It was an unhappy day for the men who lay the prices in the ring, not because of winning favorites, but only two rewarded the backers during the afternoon, but three second choices and an outsider won and as they were all well played, it meant a big loss to the layers. The best thing pulled off in some time was on Isia, the half brother to Isidor, who was a good race horse. Although Maddie was carrying too much weight and had a hard race on Tuesday, the talent made him favorite with the layer, next in demand. At the opening of the betting the price quoted against Isia was 20 to 1, but the odds steadily went up to 40 to 1, was the best obtainable at post time. There was a short delay at the post and when the flag fell Isia was away in front. He led to the final furlong where Maddie caught him and a good race ensued. In the run home, however, the weight drew away again and won by three lengths. The best field of the day took part in the fourth race, a handicap for all ages, at a mile and a sixteenth. Belle of Troy was installed favorite and she carried a big commission of her owner, Jack McDonald. But a series of accidents in the race beat her and she finished last, with the well-backed second choice, First Whip, the winner. At the start, Belle of Troy was in the lead, but she was soon overtaken by First Whip, who was a good race horse. The race was a very close one, and the winner was a big surprise. The race was a very close one, and the winner was a big surprise.
